New Type Drive-In Mail Box at Local Post Office

A new type drive-in mail box has been installed on the sidewalk in front of the Harrisburg post office.

The box, called the "Motorists Courtesy Mail Box" by the postal service, is a regular type box with a chute attached to the rear side facing the street, making it more convenient for those who wish to mail letters from their car.

For several years the local post office has offered drive-in service by attaching a broom handle to the regular door of a box. Harrisburg Postmaster A. M. Hetherington states Harrisburg was one of the first post offices to offer such a service to its patrons.

Curb service has been officially recognized by the postal department and the courtesy boxes are available to all offices requesting them.

The box has the regular type door in front, making it possible to deposit mail from the walk without going around to the curb, as in the past.

Most Important Local News Stories Of The Past Year

1954: Timotheus went through the files of The Daily Register for 1954 yesterday afternoon to refresh my memory on the most important local news stories of the past year. By local, I mean those that occurred in our reader area and covered by our own staff writers.

There were a number of deaths of persons in the county during the year whose losses definitely are felt outside the family circle. These will not be included in this list, although perhaps they should be.

Biggest local news story, I believe, for the readers of The Daily Register, concerns water. It concerns the drought, nearly running out of the precious commodity, emergency measures that were taken, and the whipping of the problem all by ourselves by voting for and constructing new Lake Harrisburg.

This might turn out to be the biggest Harrisburg story of the decade, especially if the presence of an adequate water supply is responsible for a bigger Harrisburg with more industry. At any rate, the lake was something we had to have, and we got it during 1954.

Here are the other big stories, in Timmo's opinion, although not necessarily in the order of their importance:

1. The elections. The primary in April, and the naming of new county, district and state officers in November, and the naming of city court officials early in the year.

2. Eldorado's Bootstrap operation, which is still in progress, which reached a climax during the summer with a big Bandwagon parade. CBS television cameramen filmed part of it for an Edward R. Murrow nationwide hookup presentation.

3. Ellis Trucking Co. moved terminal from Marion, Ky., to Harrisburg and occupies new building on Route 45.

4. Church - building program in county. The Methodist church and education building nearly completed, the dedication of new Presbyterian church building and First Baptist education building, and starting of new church of God on Land street, all in Harrisburg; dedication of St. Mary's Catholic church in Eldorado and construction of new Social Brethren church building in Carrier Mills.

5. Completion and dedication of Mitchellville-to-Dixon Springs road and modernizing of Route 45 from Harrisburg to Carrier Mills.

6. Completion of new addition to Junior high school, which looks bigger than ever and nearer the

Gov. Stratton Outlines Program; Leaders of Both Houses Selected

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—The 69th Illinois General Assembly convened today.

Friends and relatives packed the galleries to see the legislators take office for one of the most important sessions in state history.

There were 57 new members among the 203 legislators who will decide such matters as remapping the legislative districts for the first time in 54 years; a new school financing formula; and a score of new tax proposals.

The Legislature will also consider new judicial and revenue constitutional amendments; the state's first "definite" speed limit law; toll road controversies; and the state's biggest budget.

In all, about 2,000 bills and resolutions will be proposed. About 650 of the bills will become law, if past records hold true.

Both Parties Organize

Both Democrats and Republicans completed initial organization of the House and Senate at party caucuses Tuesday night.

The Republicans, who will control the House 78-74 and the Senate 34-19, will have Sen. Arthur J. Bidwell of River Forest and Rep. Warren L. Wood of Plainfield as leaders. Bidwell was elected at a December GOP Senate caucus and appointed Sen. George E. Drach of Springfield as his majority whip.

Wood was elected at the Tuesday night GOP House caucus to his third term as speaker. He said he would name his majority leader and whip in a few weeks, along with committee assignments.

An expected Democratic House fight over the minority leadership failed to materialize. Rep. James J. Ryan of Chicago was named minority leader by acclamation. Ryan picked Rep. Clyde L. Choate of Anna as the minority whip, the post Ryan held in 1951 and 1953.

Dixon Challenge Fades

Rep. Allen J. Dixon of Belleville had challenged Rep. Paul Powell of Vienna for the minority leadership but was not nominated at the Democratic caucus. Dixon's plans were dropped after he had a talk with Cook county leader Richard Daley, who made it plain the leadership was going to Cook county.

Powell, speaker in 1949 and minority leader in 1951 and 1953, was nominated but withdrew in favor of Ryan.

Sen. William J. Lynch of Chicago was named minority leader in the Senate. Sen. Roland V. Libonati of Chicago was named whip. Both Lynch and Libonati held these posts in 1953.

Edward H. Alexander of Jacksonville will again be secretary of the Senate. He was named at the GOP Senate caucus in December.

Fred W. Ruegg of Carlinville was named Tuesday night by House Republicans as clerk of the House.

Robert E. Willis of Anna was elected assistant House clerk by the House Democrats.

Mrs. Belva Hackley of Mattoon will be assistant postmistress of the House and Sgt. Clyde Bailey of Springfield was named assistant doorman in a contest with Frank Trapp of Taylorville.

One unusual situation faces House Republicans on the committee assignments. Although the majority party by custom controls all committees, the Democrats may control the House judiciary committee. Only lawyers are appointed to this committee by custom, and the Democrats have more lawyer House members than the Republicans.

Republican House members elected S. S. Lovan, McLeansboro, as doorkeeper, and Nellie Gray, Decatur, as postmistress.

Plane Grounded, Graveside Service For Infant Postponed

Graveside services which were to be held today in Eldorado for Rodney Lee Boaz, three day old son of Mr. and Mrs. Myrl Boaz, former residents of Eldorado who now live in Los Angeles, Calif., have been postponed due to the delayed arrival of the body.

Word was received that the plane had been grounded in California, and funeral arrangements are indefinite.

Congo Pump In Operation

The Congo pump, upstream on Middle Fork, has been in continuous operation for the past week, Amos Doom, superintendent of the water department, said today. The Congo pumps a little more than the average daily consumption into the city reservoir.

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Gov. William G. Stratton today outlined his legislative program for 1955, highlighted by his unexpected endorsement of annual sessions of the Illinois General Assembly.

Stratton reviewed the first two years of his administration, and sketched his goals for the second half, in a 10,000-word speech prepared for delivery at the Legislature opened its 1955 meeting.

He urged lawmakers to approve: Fixed highway speed limits. A new court system. Stronger anti-Communist laws. Broader state powers against crime.

Reorganization of some state agencies. Emergency appropriations for common schools and public aid. Higher payments to the jobless and disabled workers.

A "realistic" minimum wage law. A later date for state primary elections.

Stratton Tips Hand

He tipped his hand on most of these topics earlier, however. The main surprise was his advocacy of a constitutional amendment to provide that the Legislature hold "annual, and shorter," sessions instead of meeting for six months every two years like they do now.

Stratton said he was "dismayed" at the "terrible carnage" on the highways and recommended a three-point program to combat accidents:

1. A law fixing "a definite limitation" on highway speeds.

2. A bigger state police force, with starting pay raised from $322 a month to $350.

3. Setting up the Illinois Traffic Safety Council as a full division in the State Public Safety Department.

Present state law requires motorists to drive at speeds that are "reasonable and safe" under the conditions. Stratton said limits should be set that are "realistic enough for modern conditions yet outlaw really excessive and dangerous speeding."

He proposed limits of 60 to 65 miles per hour during the day and 50 to 55 at night for autos, with "correspondingly lower" figures for trucks.

Stratton later corrected his original text to add the recommendation that a commission be named to study the question of annual sessions and report back to the 1957 Legislature.

The governor's office explained the constitution prohibits submission of amendments of the same constitutional articles to the voters oftener than every four years. The article on the Legislature was amended last Nov. 2 when voters approved legislative remapping.

Follows Congress on Reds

Stratton did not spell out his ideas on anti-Communist laws, but said statutes on subversion should be "strengthened" in view of action

Rev. Porter Davis, Two Others Hurt In Auto Crash

A Harrisburg minister, and two others were injured early today in a two car crash on Route 45 near the Eldorado motel.

State Policeman Guthrie Alexander said the injured were the Rev. Porter Davis, pastor of the First Apostolic church on South Granger street in Harrisburg; Bertis Lee Aud of Alton, and his companion, Geraldine Shelton of Shawneetown.

Rev. Davis, who was returning home from Boston where he visited his injured wife, suffered chest, head, nose and knee injuries; Miss Shelton sustained head injuries and Aud suffered a leg injury. None was hospitalized last night.

Alexander said that Rev. Davis was coming toward Harrisburg about 3:45 a. m. en route home from Boston and that Aud was driving toward Eldorado when the collision occurred.

Rev. Davis today said that his wife was injured several days ago aboard ship while returning to make her home in Harrisburg after serving as a missionary in Liberia, West Africa.

The ship, he said, was in a storm which lasted four days and Mrs. Davis was tossed across her stateroom, falling and sustaining a severe arm injury. Surgery was required and bone was taken from her arm around the elbow. She must remain in Boston taking treatment for at least another month, he said.

Resume Eighth Grade Classes Here Tomorrow

Will Meet First at Presbyterian Church; 7th to Meet Monday

Eighth grade classes at the Harrisburg Junior high school which have not met since the Christmas holidays because of the fire which destroyed the old section of the building New Year's Day will be resumed tomorrow at 8:30 at the Presbyterian church. After instructions have been given and a temporary organization set up, part of the students will be sent to the Christian church and to the McKinley school.

Seventh grade classes will meet Monday at 8:30 a. m. in the Horace Mann school auditorium with part of them to be distributed later to the Logan school.

As soon as the boiler can be put into operation and heat supplied to the new section of the Junior high school building, the classes will be taken from the churches and returned there.

Students are asked to bring any textbooks they had at home. No gym clothing or shoes will be needed until the new section of the Junior high school has been put back into operation. Eighth graders should bring their band instruments on Friday.

The Board of Education and school personnel have been gratified by the widespread response of individuals and groups in offering facilities to help the school in this emergency. Since the last list was published, the McKinley Avenue Baptist church has offered the unqualified use of both its buildings, and although its Sunday school facilities are excellent, the Board desires to keep the classes as close to the Junior high school building as possible.

Gov't Tightens Regulations On Stock Buying

WASHINGTON (UP)—Tighter restrictions on speculation in the booming stock market became effective today with the opening of exchanges.

The restrictions, announced on Tuesday night, require stock buyers to put up at least 60 per cent of the purchase price of stocks rather than the 50 per cent previously permitted.

The Federal Reserve Board announced the higher margin rates Tuesday after all stock exchanges had closed. The board, as usual, made no explanation of its action.

The feeling in Washington was that excessive stock market credit might lead to a wave of speculation which could upset the current recovery of business.

Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said the amount of money borrowed to purchase securities on margin at the end of November represented less than 1.4 per cent of the market value of all listed stocks at that time.

"It's hard to understand," he said, "how they possibly could have concluded credit being used in the market today is excessive."

Edward T. McCormick, president of the American Stock Exchange, said he was "indeed surprised" to learn of the higher margin requirements.

"The amount of credit now used in the market is a matter of public record and cannot by any stretch of the imagination be considered high or unhealthy," he said.

Eugene Dixon is Named Assistant Vice President by Firm

Irving Trust company of New York City announced today that Eugene D. Dixon has been named assistant vice president.

Mr. Dixon, who joined the Irving in 1945, is a loaning and customer contact officer. Previously attached to the Irving's branch office in the Woolworth building, he is now associated with the company's office at 46th Street and Madison Avenue. Before joining the Irving, he was for several years a special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Mr. Dixon is the son of Herbert C. Dixon of Harrisburg. He now resides in Cedar Grove, N. J., at 36 Field Lane.

Peiping Radio Discloses Red Carpet Treatment for UN Chief

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold held his first conference with Red China's Premier Chou En-Lai today on the fate of 11 jailed U. S. fliers, and then attended a cocktail party and dinner in his honor.

Peiping Radio disclosed the red carpet treatment being accorded the U. N. official and his party but made no mention of the reason for his visit.

Hammarskjold arrived in Peiping at 1:55 p. m. (11:55 p. m. Tuesday CST) and met with Chou less than three hours later as the first step in his mission to win freedom for the 11 airmen jailed as "spies" and other U. N. personnel still held by the Red regime.

Peiping Radio said that the cocktail party given by Chou in honor of Hammarskjold was held at 5:30 p. m. and was attended by Communist ministers and foreign diplomats in Peiping. The broadcast monitored in Tokyo said that Chou also honored Hammarskjold and his party at dinner at 8 p. m.

The first meeting between the two men occurred at 4:30 p. m.

Getting Lavish Treatment

Hammarskjold definitely was getting the same lavish treatment accorded by Red China to other international visitors, including Britain's former Prime Minister Clement Attlee, India's Jawaharlal Nehru and Burmese Premier U. Nu.

Chou, however, did not meet Hammarskjold at the airport as he has other visiting foreign dignitaries.

But three officials of the Foreign Ministry, also headed by Chou, welcomed Hammarskjold and his six-member mission on behalf of the Peiping regime.

Also present at the airport were diplomatic representatives of non-Communist and Communist nations which recognize Red China.

Among them were emissaries of Russia, Czechoslovakia and Poland, nations which voted against the U. N. resolution which sent Hammarskjold to China, and diplomats from India, Burma and Indonesia, which abstained in the voting that authorized the mission.

President, Gov't Leaders Hear Prayer for Mission

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower and government leaders today heard a prayer for the success of Dag Hammarskjold's mission to Red China to seek release of American war prisoners.

The prayer was delivered by the Rev. Edward L. R. Elson at the National Presbyterian Church. It was made in addition to the usual prayers for the nation, the President, the Congress and world peace on the opening of the new session of Congress.

"We remember before Thee, O Lord, the emissary of the United Nations of special mission to negotiate for the deliverance of men from captivity," he said.

"We beseech Thee to grant unto him and to all whom he consults, high and holy insights, that relations between nations may be lifted into the spirit of Thy kingdom and a higher way be found for the life of the nations of this earth."

Ousted Ag Dep't Worker Shifts To FOA Agency

Will Retain His Re-Employment Rights; White House Approves

WASHINGTON (UP)—Wolf Ladejinsky, ousted by the Agriculture Department as a security risk, today was appointed to help with the Foreign Operations Administration's land reform program in Viet Nam.

Ladejinsky's shift was worked out with White House approval. Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty commented after the FOA announcement:

"The White House asked heads of the departments and agencies involved to use their best judgment in working out this situation. We believe that judgment has been exercised."

Foreign Operations Director Harold E. Stassen said his agency had reviewed Ladejinsky's security file and "found him eligible for certification for security and loyalty."

Stassen said he understood Ladejinsky would retain re-employment rights at the Agriculture Department while working for FOA. Furthermore, Stassen said, he had talked with Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson "who expressed satisfaction that this opportunity for employment in FOA will probably make good use of Ladejinsky's special qualifications."

Benson had removed the Russian-born naturalized American from his job as department attaché in Tokyo on "security" and "technical" grounds.

Later, a letter to Benson from a New York resident which was released by Benson's administrative assistant caused a heavy protest from Jewish groups. The groups claimed the letter was anti-Semitic.

Milan Smith, Benson's assistant, cited the letter as "a classic" defense of Benson's position in dismissing Ladejinsky. Later, Benson said Smith's release of the letter was a "mistake."

In stating that Stassen had reviewed Ladejinsky's security file and found him a good risk, FOA noted that the State Department had previously cleared Ladejinsky under President Eisenhower's security program.

Two Democrats Join Line of Presidential Succession Today

WASHINGTON (UP)—Two Democrats join the line of presidential succession today. First, Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) and then Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), president pro tempore of the Senate, will be behind Vice President Richard M. Nixon in the line of succession to the presidency.

Two Runs by Fire Department

The fire department made a run at 8 a. m. today to the home of Floyd Williams, 811 East Poplar street, where an overheated stove caused very slight damage.

At 6:45 p. m. yesterday the department extinguished a blaze under the hood of a car belonging to Donald Elam of Eddyville that was parked on North Vine street. Damage was confined to the wiring.

Democrats in Charge, Pledge To Support Ike

Rayburn is House Speaker; Johnson Is Senate Leader

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Democrats took over command of Congress today with a prayer and a pledge to cooperate with Republican President Eisenhower in the two crucial years that lie ahead.

Harmony was in the air as the 84th Congress convened at noon with the traditional opening-day formalities. No legislative business was transacted.

Four hours before the Senate and House were gavelled to order, legislators joined Mr. Eisenhower and Cabinet members at the National Presbyterian Church and prayer for divine guidance for the new Congress.

The change of command—from Republican to Democratic—was the highlight of this opening day. It was the first time since the Republican-controlled 80th Congress of 1946-48 that the political party which controlled the White House was not in power in Congress.

Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas took over a familiar job in the House—speaker.

A Republican—Vice President Richard M. Nixon—called the Senate to order, but it was the Democrats who were in control with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas as majority leader and Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia as new Senate president pro tempore.

Nixon administered the oath to 34 senators, including some old and new faces on Capitol Hill.

The House was called to order by retiring House Clerk Lyle Snader, a Republican. Then Rayburn administered the oath to the House members en bloc. There is one vacancy in the 435-member House.

The swearing in ceremony was followed by the formal election of Rayburn as speaker, succeeding Rep. Joseph M. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts and of George, as Senate president pro tempore. This put Rayburn and George—in that order—in the line of presidential succession directly behind Nixon.

Both the Senate and House adopted resolutions formally notifying Mr. Eisenhower of something he already had wind of—that the 84th Congress was now in session. They also advised the President they are ready to receive any message he might have for them.

Mr. Eisenhower will obligate them with a 6400-word State of the Union message which he will deliver in person to a joint session Thursday. In that message, Mr. Eisenhower will blueprint his legislative program for the new year.

Traditionally, the Senate withholds any new bills until after the President has delivered his message. But the House, following an old custom, turned loose a flood of new bills immediately after the membership was sworn in.

Johnson has pledged that the Democrats will follow a policy of supporting Mr. Eisenhower when they think he is right and opposing him when they think he is wrong. But he said they are not "going to oppose just for the sake of opposition."

Mr. Eisenhower's message Thursday will be followed by a series of special messages detailing his legislative program. Seven additional ones are now scheduled, including his foreign trade message next Monday and his budget Jan. 17.

Same Requests Expected

The State of the Union message is expected to renew requests for most of the legislation which failed to pass last year. This includes more liberal tariff-cutting powers, amendments to the Taft-Hartley law, postal rate increases, statehood for Hawaii and government pay increases.

New features in the administration program will include its military reserve training plan, an increase in the minimum wage, another postponement of corporation and excise tax cuts and a highway building program.

Trading with Red China

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Hope cannot be said to be too bright that UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld will win freedom for the 11 American airmen imprisoned as "spies" when he goes to Peiping to talk with the Red Chinese.

In his message to Hammarskjöld on the issue, Chinese Premier Chou En-lai blasted the UN for condemning the imprisonment.

The Reds may or may not feel that this case, cooked up to humiliate America in Asian eyes and impress the home citizenry, has backfired as a propaganda device. But certainly, in the coming talks, they are not likely to approve a deal that robs them of all face.

Hints have been tossed out by the Chinese radio that they might accept a trade involving 35 Chinese students now in the United States but denied exit permits to China by our government.

Still, Chou's rough language on the subject of the alleged "spies" suggests he would not yield these men in exchange for the students but might favor a trade affecting other Americans held in China. Altogether there are an estimated 526 war prisoners and others there, with none but the controversial 11 airmen and two civilians charged with spying.

Naturally enough, the United States wants them all, including the publicized 13. Since they are held illegally, we believe we are entitled to get them back as a matter of right. In a world where moral principle stood supreme, we undoubtedly would so insist, brushing aside any sordid trading in human lives.

But moral principle does not reign in a world peopled by Communists bent on conquest. Hard, practical considerations govern. When you are dealing with a kidnaper, you pay the ransom first and try to catch him later.

Most of us, in these circumstances, could see no good reason why we should not part with 35 Chinese students who are being denied permits simply because they are believed to have acquired certain technical skills and knowledge that might be useful to a hostile China.

Furthermore, even though the students are allowed to roam U. S. streets without restraint, we might be put into a difficult position before world opinion if we continued to hold them in this country against their will.

Perhaps the Communists may surprise us and propose an exchange including the 11 disputed fliers. If not, we probably would listen to any reasonable proposition involving a substantial number of other imprisoned Americans in a trade.

That would still leave the plight of the falsely accused airmen unsolved, and would place on us the burden of devising some other practical way of exerting hard leverage on the ruthless Chinese. But that was where we were before the 35 students ever were heard of.

See Little Chance For Dies to Regain Committee Seat

WASHINGTON — Rep. Martin Dies is trying to regain his old seat on the House Un-American Activities Committee — but the odds are all against him.

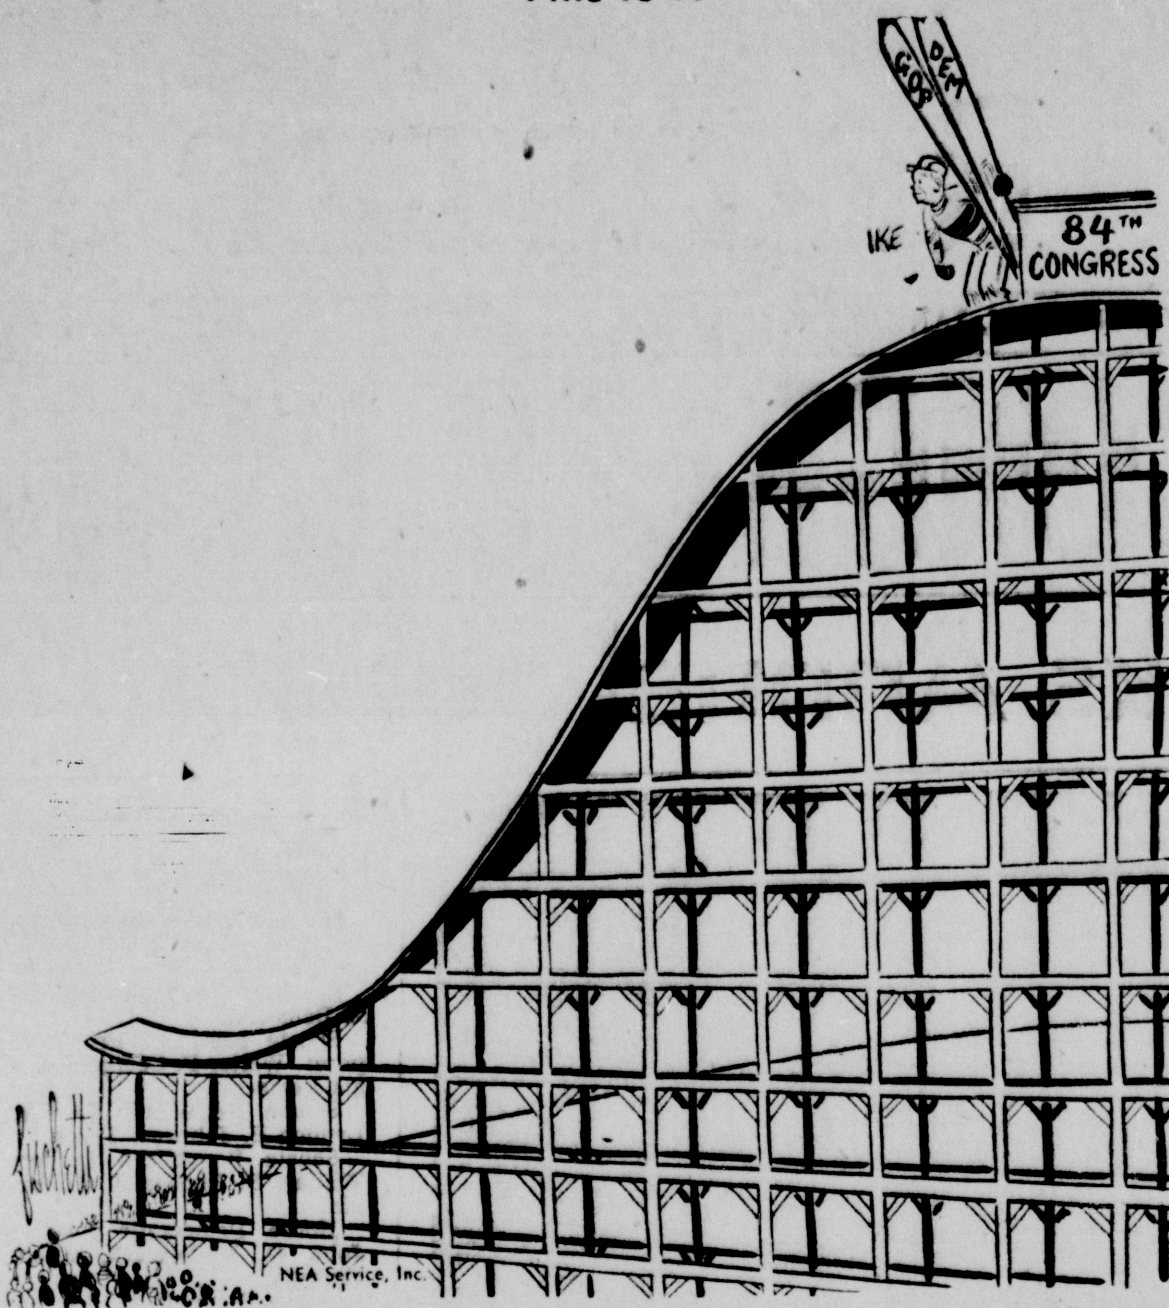

Democratic leaders seemed determined to pass over the fiery Texas Democrat in filling the lone party vacancy on the nine-man investigating group.

Dies headed the committee for seven stormy years before he decided not to run for reelection in 1945 because of his health. His Communist-hunting kept him and the committee on the front pages before and during World War II.

He put in his bid for his old seat when he returned as a Texas member-at-large two years ago, but he was balked then by the absence of any Democratic vacancy.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), the incoming chairman, told newsmen he doubts if Dies will have any more success this time. Walter and some other Democratic leaders have felt the committee got a bad name during Dies' tenure as chairman.

Navy Paint—History Repeats—'Chauncey'—Agriculture Problems—Budget Interviews

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Though there has been considerable pressure to get the U. S. Navy out of the paint manufacturing business, a new Department of Defense directive justifying the Navy's continued operation of its Norfolk, Va., and Mare Island, Calif., paint factories is now in preparation.

Navy recently advertised for bids to supply 2500 tons of resins going into paint manufacture. This was said to be enough to keep the two paint factories going for a year. As if to make sure that there would be no immediate curtailing of government paint manufacture, one specification in the bids called for delivery of the entire amount within 14 days.

Under House Government Operations Committee pressure during the last Congress, the Navy cut down its paint manufacture from 150 types to 28. The 122 discontinued types are now being supplied by private industry. But the Navy sticks to its 28 types because it says specifications are so rigid and the chances of adulteration so great that it must control every step of manufacture to obtain required quality.

IF YOU THINK history does not repeat itself, get a load of this item from the Wilmington, Del., Courier of Dec. 13, 1854—just 100 years ago:

"CONGRESS. This body will scarcely get to work before the Christmas and New Year holidays are past. The members require a little time to mature their propositions and exchange opinions. Were they more careful in this particular and to get their bills in proper shape before presenting them to the Houses, there would be much less discussion and much more harmony of action beside the trouble the committees would be relieved of."

"CHAUNCEY," a gray-haired messenger in the office of Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, has been around for more years than most high government officials can remember. On the side, he runs a little farm down near Warrenton, Va., and he sings a good tenor, accompanying himself with a mean guitar.

The other day Chauncey — nobody ever bothers with his other name—came up with a new song.

which he has dedicated to his boss, Secretary Humphrey. It's a parody on Carol Channing's "Wonderful Town" song hit, "Ohio." Humphrey's home state, where he formerly headed the M. A. Hanna Company. This is it:

"Why, oh! why did I ever leave Ohio?
Why, oh! why oh! why did I have to roam?
Think of the manner,
Of old M. A. Hanna.
Now I'm floating a loan,
Rassling the budget.
Where does it go, all that dough?
I'm now big banana.
But how I love Hanna.
If Hanna will have me I'll go, Back to O-H-I-O, Ohio."

Under House Government Operations Committee pressure during the last Congress, the Navy cut down its paint manufacture from 150 types to 28. The 122 discontinued types are now being supplied by private industry. But the Navy sticks to its 28 types because it says specifications are so rigid and the chances of adulteration so great that it must control every step of manufacture to obtain required quality.

When dairy price supports were cut from 90 to 75 per cent of parity, it was thought dairy farmers would cut down on their production. Instead of this, they have increased it. October milk production was 5 per cent above last year's, and November production was up 10 per cent. Good weather was blamed for part of the increase. But Secretary Benson and his experts must find new ways to cut production down to consumption levels.

TOP BUDGET BUREAU officials in the Eisenhower administration have been exceedingly coy about granting interviews, but they may be loosening up a bit under the holiday influence.

Ike's first budget director, Joseph M. Dodge, held his first and only press conference two years ago, just before the Eisenhower administration took over. It wasn't too successful. There was the usual "seminar" for reporters in advance of the 1954 budget message, at which Mr. Dodge and his deputy and successor, Rowland R. Hughes, appeared and answered questions.

Mr. Hughes' public statements since taking over have been confined to a couple of speeches and one of the longest press releases ever issued—88 big pages—explaining the background of the Dixon-Yates contract from the Eisenhower administration's point of view.

On Dec. 31, however, Director Hughes invited the press regulars who cover the Budget Bureau to come in and have a cup of coffee with him at noon, so he could wish them a happy New Year. The big question was whether this was significant or just seasonal? But the reporters all wished Mr. Hughes a "moderately progressive" New Year, too.

Cautious Driving Can Cut Crime Rate: Hoover

Says Traffic Policemen Could Work On Major Crimes

WASHINGTON — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover thinks cautious driving could help stem the nation's crime rate which spiraled to a record high last year.

How? Hoover explained in the FBI's "Law Enforcement Bulletin," that if the "millions of usually responsible and law-abiding citizens" would refrain from violating speed laws and other traffic regulations, thousands of policemen, now assigned to traffic duty, could work on major crimes.

"The demand for traffic officers in many police departments has whittled the number of men available for other duties to a point where there are too few of them for the job they have to do," he said in referring to the 5 per cent rise in the serious crime rate.

Hoover also discussed the record crime rate and other aspects of the FBI's work in an extensive year-end report to Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr.

He said that new highs were set in 1954 for such crimes as robbery, serious assaults, rapes, burglaries and larcenies. But there was a slight drop in the number of homicides and auto thefts.

Hoover's report covered a variety of subjects in which the FBI has been involved in the past year. Among them were:

Communism: "The need for eternal vigilance against subversion by followers of the Communist party becomes more necessary with the world-wide rise of 'neutralism' and the intensified Soviet propaganda program of 'peaceful co-existence'."

He said that during the year the FBI arrested 29 party leaders on charges of conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of this government, or for belonging to an organization which does teach that doctrine.

Bank Robberies: There were 307 bank robberies in 1954, as compared with 248 in 1953; 176 bank burglaries as compared with 154 and 34 bank larcenies as compared with 16. There were 315 convictions for various bank thefts, as compared with 193 in 1953.

Bank Embezzlements: The FBI investigated 1,065 charges of bank embezzlements last year. The FBI "with increasing frequency is observing cases where shortages have been concealed over a period of years by the skillful manipulation of accounts and figures."

Civil Rights: "The nation can take pride in the progress being made in protecting civil rights. There was no lynching for the third successive year. In the past 10 years, there have been only 16 lynchings as compared with 65 in the preceding 10-year period. Civil rights convictions totalled 18 last year as compared with six in 1953."

ICC Chairman Hits Public Protests On Proposed Utility Rate Increases

By ALFRED LEECH
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO — Chairman George R. Perrine of the Illinois Commerce Commission said today that most public protests to proposed utility rate increases are "ridiculous."

Furthermore, he said, some testimony by objectors at Commerce Commission hearings is "absurd" and "irrelevant."

In some cases, he said, decisions have been delayed "and it's not the commission's fault."

"The public is entitled to its day and the commission must be responsive," he said. "But in the final analysis the commission can consider only factual evidence."

Perrine said public protest meetings and demonstrations are pointless.

"If we let ourselves be swayed by such protests we could never issue a sound decision," he said in an interview.

Perrine said the commission must set rates which will permit public utilities to grow "on a sound basis, without gouging the public."

"If they don't grow, the communities they serve can't grow," he said.

Perrine cited as a pointless protest campaign the prolonged dispute over the Chicago & North Western's 5:05 p. m. commuter train from Chicago to Geneva.

The railroad petitioned about a year ago for permission to stop the train at Geneva instead of running it all the way to Clinton, Iowa, at an alleged loss of $37,000 a year.

ICC Overruled Riders
The railroad said it had no intention of discontinuing the run to Geneva, but Geneva residents organized a protest campaign anyway, apparently fearing the worst. They ridiculed the railroad in barbed verse and hired a lawyer to represent them at Commerce Commission hearings, which dragged through 17 sessions.

The commission last Friday granted the railroad's request. Perrine said some commuters "seem to think they should be running the railroads."

He said he speaks from experience because he commutes from Aurora.

"Some commuters aren't happy unless they get the same seat in the same car every day so they can play cards," he said.

Perrine said he sits wherever he can find a seat, regardless of the card players.

1954's LOONEY LARCENY:
It's a Lootful of Slapstick

By MEADER G. PATTINGTON
NEA Special Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — For wacky events in the larceny business, 1954 was a vintage year. Auto thieves, burglars and stick-up artists acted out zany plots that must have Martin and Lewis complaining of plagiarism.

The alibi list, for instance, could have been written by a TV gagman. At Los Angeles, a 240-pound burglar who forced his way into a doctor's office claimed after his capture that he was seeking reducing pills. A man in Hamilton, Ont., charged with stealing a $150 pair of glasses, insisted he only took them to "see my way out of the store."

And late one night at Chicago two youths surrounded by hacksaws and wrenches and nabbed on the roof of a packing house, said, "Honest, officer, we were just looking for girls."

Then there was the fellow at Cincinnati who swallowed a dose of heroin to avoid arrest on narcotics charges. When police pumped the drug from his stomach, he loudly demanded his freedom — claiming the cops got the evidence without a search warrant.

Loonier even than alibis was some of the year's odd loot. Thieves broke into a shoe plant at Brockton, Mass., and took only one item: a watchdog named Judy. At

Sidelights on Legislature

SPRINGFIELD — Sidelights on the Legislature:

Lawmakers returning to the State Capitol for the first time in 18 months today had a pleasant surprise—the starlings are gone.

A chemical that is obnoxious to their old roosts on the building and sprayed on trees around it.

Not a starling is to be seen at the Capitol, where they used to flock by the thousands.

Instead, the birds now gather in downtown Springfield, a few blocks away, making travel there hazardous for pedestrians.

This could be termed Illinois' first million dollar Legislature. For the first time, the annual salaries of members tops that mark.

A 1951 law boosted pay from $3,000 a year to $5,000. A member's pay couldn't be hiked, however, until his term had ended. Senators serve staggered four-year terms, and terms of half the senators who were in the office in 1951 didn't end until today.

Of the 203 members of the Legislature, 45 were completely new. Seven others served previously, but not in 1953, and five moved up from the House in 1953 to the Senate this year.

A veteran conspicuously missing from his old House seat was Rep. Reed F. Cutler, Lewistown Republican who was beaten for renomination. He had been a legislator for 14 two-year terms.

Other long-termers not on hand included Rep. R. J. Branson, GOP member from Centralia who unsuccessfully sought the nomination for state treasurer last spring; Rep. Charles J. Jenkins, Chicago Republican who retired and died recently; and Sen. Edward P. Salliel, another Chicago GOP member who lost in the Nov. 2 voting.

Dean of the Legislature is Sen. Frank Ryan, Chicago Democrat opening his 21st regular session today. House dean is another Democrat, Rep. Frank Holten, East St. Louis, with one less session than Ryan.

Bill to Extend
Trade Pacts
No. One in House

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—A bill to carry out President Eisenhower's proposal for a three-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements program was given the No. 1 position on the House legislative calendar at the opening of Congress today.

The bill was introduced by Rep. Jere Cooper (D-Tenn.), who is in line to head the House Ways and Means Committee in the new 84th Congress. His proposal was given the coveted designation H. R. 1 (House Resolution No. 1).

Cooper's bill followed the recommendations laid down last year by the special commission which made a study of foreign trade. The commission was headed by Clarence B. Randall, steel executive. Cooper was a member of the commission.

Forestry Ass'n
To Meet Jan. 19-21
At Crab Orchard

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Members of the Illinois Technical Forestry association will hold their annual winter meeting at the Crab Orchard Sportsmen's association clubhouse in the Crab Orchard Lake Wildlife Refuge area Jan. 19-21. Fred Siemert, Springfield, program chairman, said today. Siemert is a staff forester with the Illinois State Division of Forestry.

The program will include discussions by William M. Lewis, Carbondale, Southern Illinois university director of fisheries management research; by Edward Lee, Harrisburg, supervisor of the Shawnee National Forest; by Geoffrey Hughes, Carbondale, executive secretary of Southern Illinois Incorporated, regional development organization; and by a representative of the Cook County Forest Preserve.

Siemert says the meeting will be concerned with multiple forest management, emphasizing recreation, watershed protection, wildlife productions, and fisheries management as integrated with timber production.

A business session will open the meeting at 2 p. m. Jan. 19. Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge personnel will have charge of the dinner session program the first day. The foresters will tour the refuge area Jan. 20, and have concluding discussion sessions until noon the next day.

The association is a non-profit organization composed of technical foresters in Illinois.

Freeman Firm To Buy CW&F Coal Control

CHICAGO — Col. Henry Crown, board chairman of a corporation which owns the Freeman Coal Mining Corp., was expected late today to announce purchase of "substantially all" of the stock of the Chicago, Wilmington & Franklin Coal Co.

Crown is chairman of the board of Material Service Corp. of Chicago which owns Freeman Coal Mining Corp. The combined production of the two firms constitutes the largest coal production in the state of Illinois and ranks with the largest in the country.

Expressing confidence in the future of the mining industry, Crown said he plans to double production in the CW&F No. 3 mine at Waltonville. CW&F has two mines in Franklin County and one in Jefferson County which, he said, produced about 3 1/2 million tons in 1954. Formerly, it operated five other Southern Illinois mines and others in central and northern Illinois and in West Virginia.

Freeman Coal has three mines operating, two in southern Illinois and its new Crown mine in central Illinois. Freeman produced about 3 1/2 million tons in 1954 also.

Crown said an offer has been made to buy all the remaining stock at $25 a share, the price paid for that already acquired from large stockholders. The offer expires Jan. 20.

George B. Harrington, president of CW&F for over 40 years, will become a director and vice-president of Material Service Corp. In 1944 he was awarded the William Lawrence Saunders Gold Medal by the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. He was the 14th man to receive the award, but the first member of the coal industry.

The Nurnberg trials were a new departure in international law since it was the first time the leaders of a government had been brought to trial on the charge of starting a war.

Ford to Double Production at St. Louis Plant

DETROIT (U.P.)—Ford Motor Co. announced today its St. Louis, Mo., assembly plant "will virtually double" its production of Mercury automobiles when it adds a second shift in two weeks.

Benson Ford, general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury division, said the plant will turn out about 640 units a day with two shifts. He said employment will be increased by 1,500 persons, bringing the total to about 4,500.

"A larger supervisory staff will be required, and will be obtained by promotion of production personnel in all levels of supervision from within present ranks," Ford said. The St. Louis plant builds Mercury cars for 750 dealerships in 24 states, principally in the South and Midwest.

Fight The Wild River

THE STORY: Capt. Irving Crotch of the steamboat General Heath had some mysterious boxes aboard when he stops at Yuma early in the 60's. He suspected they contain rifles, since troops have been withdrawn from Arizona for service in the War Between States, and the Apaches are terrorizing settlers. Crotch's business, however, is not rifles, but taking miners up the Colorado to search for gold.

A tall street wagon stood waiting on the street; others were rolling in with ungreaased axles squealing shrilly. As Crotch's interest caught the scene he made out a gaunt cavalryman with yellow-striped legs and black felt hat bearing the familiar device of crossed sabers. The soldier's interest was centered beyond, and now the edges of his mouth lifted in a smile.

Crotch's gaze swept on, found the woman and followed her movements in the blurred shadows beyond. She took no notice of the cavalryman, continuing her walk as though he never existed. This was the woman they called Queenie.

Obviously she was not yet aware that Dreyfus awaited her in the pastry shop, as he had said. She commenced slowly to cross the road toward the mud-walled shop where she baked and sold her goods. As Crotch watched she broke her stride in midstreet. Now she turned and, lifting her skirts higher, fairly ran toward the Gila House. Crotch's gaze fastened on a figure leaning against the ramshackle post support. This man was the cause for Queenie altering her direction.

The man leaning against the post was Radcliff Burke, a handsome fellow with a superb physique, with luminous eyes, a taint of violence about them. He had booked passage during the late afternoon, and Crotch had then experienced the feeling he had signed on something unholy. It was probably coincidental, but Burke had taken passage immediately after the mining machinery had been stowed aboard.

Meaningful looks darted between man and woman as Burke recognized Queenie. There was no greeting, no smile to soften his handsome mouth. He wheeled, snubbing her mercilessly, and passed through the hotel's thick-walled entranceway.

Queenie stopped in her tracks. Her expression, as Crotch came abreast, was still fighting off shock. She had been hurt, deeply humiliated. Yet she smiled at Crotch, a momentary glimpse of pleasure before she gave way to her former hurt.

He tipped his cap. "You know him, Queenie? You want me to teach him manners?"

Her face was longish, with sad brown eyes. Her sensuous lips were now faintly quivering. "Radcliff Burke," she murmured, then turned.

She paused with her back to him, as though uncertain. She was scarcely beyond her teens. "Is he going upriver on the General Heath?" she asked barely above a whisper.

Crotch thought about her question, saw no harm in it and told the truth. Then Queenie walked on. She brought alive active regret in Crotch. A woman invariably loved the wrong man.

Its unfairness brought Crotch an annoying anger. His own youth flashed back for him and he felt pity for Queenie. But his sympathy was infinitely more profound for Cal Dreyfus.

Crotch stalked on into the hotel, feeling the close heat of tight walls pressing about him.

This place had been built to cater to the demands of emigrant trains.

What worried him primarily, he was finally forced to admit, were Sugar Logan the mill owner at La Paz and Jim Melott his engineer; he judged both would be men who lived true to their convictions.

He came to room No. 11, glanced ed up the hall and found it deserted, then knocked on the panel and tried the handle. The door was unlocked. Major Murphy sat on the iron bed, smoking a cheroot. He was a wiry officer with a bold, bony nose and with stringers of gray in his hair. The worked-down look on his face told what Indian problems could do to a soldier. But there was steel in the major and he smiled as Crotch slipped inside.

"Ah, Crotch! I've been waiting for this!"

"But why here?" the captain asked stiffly.

"We meet at the Gila House because no one else must hear what we say."

Normally the major was a fair man, seldom asking the unreasonable; he was mild-mannered and considerably more friendly than the usual post commander. But at the moment Crotch suspected the plans the major was formulating. He said heavily, "What needs saying can be quickly told. I don't fancy carrying your boxes to La Paz."

A shadow of defeat darkened Murphy's eyes—and was gone. "So you believe there's something wrong with the shipment!"

"A man hasn't hauled cargo all his life without knowing the dead weight of mining machinery. Which your boxes are not!"

"You think you know what they contain?"

Crotch was still a moment. His convictions had nothing solid to build on. And yet he read the correctness of his fears in the major's faintly sly glance. It sent anger crashing through him. "They're rifles!"

"Captain, do sit down! And don't raise your bull's voice. They're Springfield '58's!"

"You're not using me for your war!"

Convict Illinois Labor Leader For Extortion

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—A Federal Court jury Tuesday night convicted Illinois labor leader Guy M. Harmon of extorting $1,750 to insure "labor peace" on a cross-country pipeline project.

The jury of six men and six women deliberated about an hour before finding Harmon, business agent for the Peoria local of the AFL Operating Engineers Union, guilty.

Harmon thus became the second Illinois labor leader in two weeks to be convicted on extortion charges.

Evan R. Dale, the AFL laborer's union leader in southern Illinois, was sentenced last month to serve up to 15 years on charges of trying to extort money from contractors building an atomic power installation.

In the Harmon case, Morris Stout testified he paid $250 to Harmon on about April 1, 1952 and gave him another $1,500 in Peoria in November, 1952.

Stout, now vice president of the J. L. Cox & Son pipestringing firm of Raytown, Mo., said he made the payments after he noticed "extra men" had been placed on pipe unloading crews and "weren't working."

At the time Stout's firm was helping lay a 700-mile, 52 million-dollar pipeline for the Sinclair Oil Corp. from Oklahoma to East Chicago, Ind.

Harmon, testifying in his own defense, denied Stout's charges. Federal Judge Charles G. Briggie continued Harmon's $10,000 bond and set Jan. 11 to hear possible motions for a new trial.

McCarthy Group To Test Case Against Witness

WASHINGTON — The Senate Government Operations Committee, in one of its last official acts under the chairmanship of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, decided today to make a test case against a witness for "improperly" invoking the Fifth Amendment.

The committee approved a contempt citation against Miss Diantha Hoag of Buffalo, N. Y. She had invoked the Fifth Amendment more than 40 times when she appeared in secret session before the investigating subcommittee last August.

McCarthy described the contempt action as a "test case" to define the rights of witnesses to plead self-incrimination under the Fifth Amendment after they have answered certain general questions.

He said Miss Hoag had sworn under oath that she never had engaged in sabotage or espionage, but then invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked whether she had ever given classified information to Communists or had heard classified defense work discussed at a Communist Party meeting.

McCarthy said the committee took the position that once a person has answered a "general question" he has "waived" his protection under the Fifth Amendment on specific questions.

McCarthy described it as a "very important test case," noting that perhaps some 25 witnesses before his subcommittee in the past year had followed a course similar to Miss Hoag's. He said the issue of whether a person waives protection under the Fifth Amendment by answering a general question has never been decided in the courts.

Gov. Stratton Outlines Program

taken by Congress outlawing the Communist Party.

On crime prevention, he had two requests — creation of a state crime investigation commission, which was defeated two years ago, and broader powers for the attorney general to deal with law enforcement conditions that might spring up around the state.

Stratton asked for laws to abolish the State Aeronautics Department and have its functions transferred to a new division under the Public Works Department, and to merge the Illinois Harness Racing Commission and Illinois Racing Board.

He said "serious consideration" should be given to bringing the Illinois Public Aid Commission "within the departmental structure," instead of having it continue as an independent agency.

Touches Money Problems

The governor touched only briefly on the state's financial condition, saying he'd go into detail on that when he gives the Legislature his budget in about three months.

He did, however, request two major deficiency appropriations — $12,500,000 to meet the increased need for poor relief, and $6,228,000 to pay school district claims in full for the first six months of 1955.

Stratton said there would be "many advantages" to making the date of the state primary elections later in the year, including better weather and shorter campaigns.

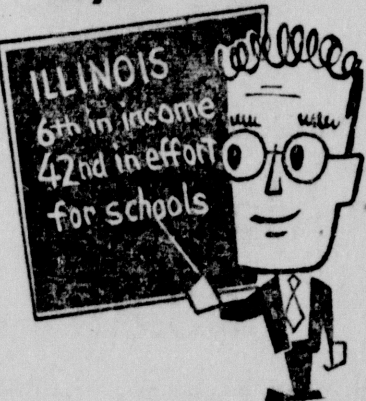

Another election law change he proposed would allow the physically disabled to cast absentee ballots.

Sugar Robinson Favored in Comeback Tonight

DETROIT (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, determined to win back the world's middleweight championship he gave up voluntarily in 1952, was a heavy favorite today to launch his comeback campaign successfully tonight with a victory over Joe Rindone in a 10-round non-televized bout.

Robinson quit the ring two years ago in favor of a song and dance stage career after he tried unsuccessfully to dethrone the then light-heavyweight champion, Joey Maxim.

The meeting with Rindone, a Roxbury, Mass., veteran of nine years in the ring, marks Robinson's first official bout in his comeback campaign. He defeated Gene Burton in a six-rounder at Hamilton, Ont., last Nov. 29 but that fight was listed as an exhibition.

Robinson, who ruled as welterweight champion before he walked off with the 160-pound title, owns one of the most outstanding records of all time. He lost only three times during his long career.

Rindone has defeated such top fighters as Pierre Langlois, Irish Bob Murphy and Billy Kilgore.

Wildcats Beat Cave-in-Rock Five, 58 to 50

The Carrier Mills Wildcats travelled to Cave-in-Rock Tuesday night and copped their fourth victory of the season—the first win for the 'Cats away from home—58-50.

Cave-in-Rock came up with an effective defense against the under-the-basket scoring of Oliver Rollins, Carrier Mills point making ace, and held him to two field goals during the entire first half.

The defense was simply breaking up the attempted passes to Rollins and by alert, quick play, the home team was able to keep the ball away from Rollins practically the entire opening two quarters.

Rollins finished the evening's chores with 21 points on seven fielders and a like number of free tosses, with most of the field goals scored on rebounds.

The winners jumped away fast and at one time early in the first quarter held a 12-4 advantage. At the end of the period Carrier Mills was on top 18-10 and at half time still led 29-22.

With the opening of the second half, Cave went into a full-court press and made it pay off for a while. Getting the jump on the 'Cats and making them look bad in all departments of play, Cave scored nine consecutive points in three and a half minutes and led 31-29.

A couple of free throws by Carrier Mills' Max Berns knotted the count and the 'Cats were back in the game, holding a 42-34 lead when the period ended.

Each team counted 16 points in the last quarter as Carrier Mills maintained its advantage and won 58-50.

Carrier Mills also won the preliminary game, 47-32.

Friday night Cave-in-Rock plays at Ridgway in a Greater Egyptian contest and Saturday night Carrier Mills will be host to Jack Archer's Carterville team.

Thompsonville Tigers Defeat Waltonville, 65-45

Thompsonville's Tigers moved into a tie with Woodlawn for fourth place in the Little Egyptian conference standings last night on the strength of their 65-45 victory over Waltonville.

The two clubs battled evenly through the first half with the Tigers taking a slight edge prior to the intermission. The score was 28-24. Midway in the third the score was tied 35-35, but Thompsonville then tallied eight straight points to lead 43-35 at the end of the period.

In the final canto, Bob Munday's cagers outscored the Waltonville quintet, 22-10, to win easily. Thompsonville made 29 of 70 for a 41% average in the field. Waltonville counted on 19 of 59 efforts for a 32%.

Report NCAA Considering Compromise on College TV 'Game of Week' Program

NEW YORK (AP)—The rules committee of the American Football Coaches Assn. today unanimously approved a slate of new rules recommendations, including a provision for more liberal substitution.

These recommendations now will be submitted to the NCAA football rules committee for formal adoption for the 1955 season. The NCAA committee meets here next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The proposed new substitution rule, recommended by the 30-man committee headed by Coach Lou Little of Columbia, provides that a player who starts a quarter of a game may re-enter the contest once during that period, but a player who does not start the quarter may not re-enter in the same period.

Meanwhile, the NCAA's television committee was reported considering a compromise which would make the controversial "Game of the Week" program more acceptable to the Big Ten and Pacific Coast conferences.

Under the terms of the proposed new plan, a single nationally televised game would be aired for only half the season with regionally televised games permitted for the other half of the schedule. The committee has been in secret session for the last several days.

The powerful Big Ten and Pacific Coast conferences objected strenuously to the 1954 program which called, with slight variations for a single game to be televised on a national hookup. The new plan would preserve the basic outlines of that program while at the same time granting the Big Ten and PCC at least a portion of what they want.

A source close to the situation explained the compromise as follows:

"Assume there are 10 football Saturdays in the season. On five of those dates there would be the single televised game as in the 1954 program. But on the other five, regional telecasts would be permitted. Under the plan a school might appear once on the national hookup and then a second time on a regional hookup."

7-Year Prison Sentence Closes Mystery-Shrouded Case of Ex-Code Expert

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—A seven-year prison sentence has officially closed the mystery-shrouded case of Joseph S. Petersen Jr., former code expert of the super-secret National Security Agency.

Only the barest outlines of Petersen's offense were released to the public. It was no secret that agency officials, who shudder at publicity, breathed a sigh of relief that the case never came to trial.

Petersen was sentenced in U. S. District Court here Tuesday by Federal Judge Albert Bryan for misusing secret documents of the code-breaking agency. It was one of the stiffest punishments ever meted out for taking government documents in peacetime. Two other charges were dropped.

Petersen, who previously had pleaded guilty to the charge, was visibly shocked at the seven-year term. With time off for good behavior, the thin, former physics teacher will become eligible for parole in two years. Maximum sentence he could have received was 10 years and a $10,000 fine.

Specifically, Petersen, 40, was charged with using secret information "in a manner prejudicial to the safety and interests of the United States."

Why Petersen took the secret documents and stored them in his apartment, why he disclosed some of them to a Dutch friend, and why the agency decided to prosecute him and risk a public trial were questions left unanswered.

Petersen, in a sworn statement to the FBI that was read in court, admitted that he disclosed the contents of one top secret document to a close friend who was a Dutch military liaison officer in Washington. The Netherlands government admitted getting the information—a copy of the Chinese telegraphic code—but said it thought Petersen had been authorized to send it.

The four documents found in Petersen's Arlington, Va., apartment were a copy of the secret code of the Dutch government, an analysis of North Korean security traffic, the plans of a code-breaking machine and the Chinese code.

Petersen testified he kept two of these for use in training courses he taught. He was not asked about the others.

Explains Social Security Changes In Kiwanis Talk

Joe Hesselgrave, assistant manager of the Harrisburg Social Security office, discussed changes in benefits under the social security program, in an address last night to members of the Kiwanis club at the Masonic temple.

Mr. Hesselgrave passed out booklets which explained fully the present Social Security law including the amendments which went into effect on Jan. 1. These included adding 10 million more persons to the program. The new groups included self employed farmers, clergymen on a voluntary basis, professional groups except for doctors, dentists and lawyers, and hired farm laborers.

He also explained the increase in benefits which are now in effect, the new disability provision whereby anyone becoming totally disabled may have his earnings "frozen" to prevent his average earnings from going down.

Mr. Hesselgrave pointed out that more than 400,000 people receive benefits in Illinois with $20,000,000 in benefits being paid each month. Fifteen thousand receive benefits in the 14-county area covered by the Harrisburg office. Benefits to these 15,000 total $500,000 per month, he said.

Dan Davis, new club president, announced the next meeting would be held Monday night at 6 o'clock, instead of Tuesday evening, because of the Masonic school of instruction to be held next week. He also announced the new lieutenant governor, Ray Owens of Marion, would be here on Jan. 18, and an inspirational meeting would be held at Marion on Jan. 24, which local club members are urged to attend.

John Metten was a new member at the club meeting last night and was installed by Ronnie Dorge, a past president.

Warns Education Benefits for GI Near an End

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressman warned today that many volunteers signing up in the current military enlistment boom may be doing so in the false belief they still can get a free education on discharge.

The number of enlistments has increased sharply since President Eisenhower announced Saturday that wartime veterans benefits would be terminated on Jan. 31.

Rep. Olin E. Teague (D-Tex.), new chairman of the House Veterans Committee, called on recruiting officers to tell volunteers bluntly that as the situation now stands one of the benefits—education at government expense—is already good as dead.

Teague said, however, he will introduce legislation in the new Congress immediately to protect the new recruits on the education provisions.

Teague said the new volunteers are right in believing that by joining the services before Jan. 31 they still can be entitled to GI loans, mustering-out pay and special unemployment insurance. But he said that unless his bill is enacted, they can accumulate entitlement for a free education only from now until Jan. 31.

This means all they get for signing up immediately is about a month or so of free schooling since they would be entitled to only 1½ months of school for each month of service.

Teague's bill would let men in the service as of Jan. 31 continue collecting time for free schooling up to the maximum.
